Fall Meeting November 11, 1988

Elizabeth Tees

change by the arrangements. Why not go ahead and register today?

The earlier you register for the meeting, the better.

The year has seen student papers presented from the formation of student chapters. Papers range from the presentation of research on the effectiveness of student participation in decision-making to the discussion of student chapters and their role in student participation. The main focus of the meeting was on discussing the role of student chapters in decision-making. Light refreshments will be served. If you have any questions about the meeting, please feel free to ask.

Professor Frederick Hickernell, professor of mathematics and statistics at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign, will be the keynote speaker at the conference. His research focuses on the development of efficient algorithms for high-dimensional integration and approximation.

Hickernell's talk, titled "High-Dimensional Integration: Challenges and Opportunities," will be held on November 15 at 3:00 PM in the Mathematics Building. The event is free and open to the public.

Visitors to the conference will have access to the following resources:

- Conference proceedings
- Poster session
- Networking opportunities
- Social events

The conference is organized by the Illinois Applied and Computational Mathematics Initiative (ACMI) and supported by the Office of the Provost.
